To Wan-Oi Love.

The following valentine from a gentleman already encumbered and probably intended for one of our absent belles was lost and is here published in the hope it may reach its proper destination. [Ed.]

If Oi could spake sano cerimonie Oi would say, "Oi love ye, Tony, More than chrze and maccaroni."

Without fear;
But the Fates are all against it;
Wedlocks bonds cry out forinist it,
Hince Oi've never yet commincied it,
Tony dear.

Oi'd spake of that strange charm about ye,
That makes one's life a blank without ye,

How Oi'd niver, noubt ye Far or near.

Oi'd rave of your complexion,
Teeth and nose and urge eliction

To a marital conniction,
Tony, Dear.

Of your spirits iffirviscin,
Of your smile, so preposissin,

Of your wit that keeps wan guissin
Where he's at;

Of your tongue that soothes or lashes,
Of those eyes where lightnin' flashes

Dakin' liners to your mashes
Off the bat.

Faith, 'tis aisy to adore ye!
Aisier still it is to bore ye,

Rut niver a mon could e'er ignore ye!
Ain't it queer?

But cool—pe list to his repinin'
While 'round your thumbs ye have him twinin'

Thin tell him he needs turpentinin',
Tony, dear.

Aweel, meself Oi am consolin'.
On Matrimony's sea Oi'm rollin';

For ye sure would send me bowling,
That is clear;

But still Oi say Oi love ye, Tony,
More than chaze in maccaroni,

More than piztail or bologna,
Tony, dear.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." R. C. Hardwick, druggist, sells and guarantees them at 50c a bottle.

TOURIST BUSINESS

Not Interfered With by Recent Hot Springs Fire.

Information has been received here by the local office of the Illinois Central railroad company from C. F. Cooley, Secretary of the Business Men's League of Hot Springs, Ark., to the effect that the recent fire at that place did not extend to any of the hotels, bath houses or resorts, and will, therefore, not interfere in any way with Hot Springs tourist business.

Attacked by a Mob

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at R. C. Hardwick's drug store.

CHAS. FINCH GETS A LIFE SENTENCE.

Jury Brings In a Verdict Early Yesterday Morning.

CARNEY NOW ON TRIAL.

The Other Two Will Likely be Tried Also at This Term.

Charles Finch, number six in rotation, gets a life sentence this time for the part he played in the Pembroke murder. According to his own testimony, he was to remain in the road while the others murdered the stranger a little distance from the roadside. He claimed that he ran away when he found the sleeping man was being killed instead of robbed, but the jury evidently believed that Finch was posted in the road to watch and was guilty with the rest of the gang. The case went to the jury Saturday and the final agreement was reached in time to be handed in early yesterday morning. At his former trial Finch was given a death sentence and that he escapes this time with an unbroken neck is due largely to the eloquent speech made by attorney John Feland in his defense.

The Carney Case.

Dick Carney, one of the condemned men given a new trial by the Court of Appeals, was put on trial Monday. The usual course was followed and a special venire of 75 men was summoned, out of which the following jury was made up Tuesday morning:

J. W. Alexander, John Wynn, L. B. Hamby, J. V. Boyd, H. F. Boyd, Dennis Durham, Emmett Roper, J. C. Duke, W. R. Barnes, R. H. Baker, J. W. Gresham and J. E. Taylor.

Carney is defended by Robt. Lander, the colored attorney, while the prosecution is assisted by Judges James Breathitt and Charles H. Bush. According to all reports, Carney was one of the ring-leaders and richly deserved the sentence given him before.

In addition to the confessions of several of the men, Chas. Finch and Ed. Moseley both testified Tuesday afternoon that they saw Carney creep upon the sleeping man with four others of the gang and assist in the actual murder. One strong point in the circumstantial evidence was finding a $1 bill on Carney's person when he was arrested; the man had a bill of this denomination around his roll of money when he showed it in a saloon a few hours before he was killed. It is believed that the money taken from Carney was one of the stranger's bills, for which the murder was committed.

The defendant went on the stand and attempted to prove an alibi, but there was nothing beyond a general denial. He claimed that he stayed with a friend that night, but failed to introduce the friend. The defense was very weak.

The case was argued by Robert Lander and Judge Bush and submitted at the noon adjournment yesterday.

The court ordered a jury summoned for Friday morning to take up the case of Frank Merriwether, the last but one of the gang. Ed Moseley, the ninth, is out on bond. The Mack Hern murder case was set for next Saturday.

SELFISHNESS CLARKSVILLE'S LONG SUIT.

friends seem to be laboring under some grave misapprehension, or serious error, if reports coming from that quarter are correct. It is said that the business men of our sister city are very much aggrieved and disappointed over the action of the Executive Committee of the Farmers' Tobacco Association in selecting the general salesman from Clarksville, but more chagrined because of the designation of Clarksville as the point for the collection of type samples, for classification, etc."

Then follows a lengthy argument against the trust. We are all opposed to the Tobacco Trust, but it is unnecessary for us to form a Clarksville Trust in order to carry out the purposes of the organization.

Our neighbor continues: "The success of the movement will bring from two to three million more money in the district than the last crop fetched. This money will be divided with the trade of the two places in proportion as the people choose their trading place, and Hopkinsville has not been hurt, but benefited by the organization, for she will receive both her full share of the patronage in business and also more tobacco for prizing and storage, than otherwise under the trust rule.

We would call the attention of all interested to the fact that it was contention or rivalry between Louisville and Cincinnati that led indirectly to the defeat of the Burley Growers' Organization, and if the farmers of this section are wise they will lend no comfort to such a complaint from any quarter, but follow the action of their leaders, who have been faithful and true, and accomplished the most wonderful feat in organization known in history."

On the other hand it is important that the leaders at once amend their rules and lend proper "comfort" to every city in the district whose banks are helping to finance the movement, in order to avoid just what happened at Cincinnati. Clarksville may be strong in her own conceit, but we doubt if she be strong enough to urge a committee believed to have been organized with its weather eye on Clarksville to "lend no comfort" to those who do not like the agreement.

We give the Leaf-Cronicle's own explanation of why Clarksville was made "headquarters."

"Now in regard to the selection of Clarksville as the most suitable place for concentrating the type samples for classification. The committee was controlled by the same high motive of doing the best they could for the farmers, with no regard whatever for the material interests of the town. It was first contemplated to collect these types at Guthrie. That purpose was defeated for want of a suitable building. It was found that a splendid house for the purpose could be had in Clarksville on very reasonable terms. Then it was also demonstrated that the greater bulk of the tobacco would come here because of the facilities for prizing and storing. It was reasoned also that it was well to profit by the example of the enemy. The Regie people bought and prized tobacco all over the country and then shipped 12,000 hogsheads here to get the Clarksville brand on it and cheaper shipping rates out, the Clarksville inspection being better known in Italy and all foreign markets. However this may be, the committee had to concentrate these samples somewhere, they could not go to the woods for such business.

We can't see that Hopkinsville has anything to gain by antagonizing the Executive Committee in this matter. Our neighbors should have taken hold in the start, as the Clarksville people did and helped the farmers of Christian county organize. Now the thing for Hopkinsville to do is to go to work, like the Clarksville people are doing, help the farmers and get all the tobacco you can handle for your prizing and storage houses. This is all that this town can get out of it, other than first helping the planters to get plenty of money for their tobacco. Dissension now helps the trust, and must hurt those who engage in such tactics."

This is, we admit, a plausible explanation and we agree with Mr.

In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. Limbs Badly Swollen.

Dr. M. M. Fenner, Fredonia, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—About 4 years ago I began to suffer with severe pains in my back making it impossible for me to do any work. My limbs were swollen badly and I was troubled with an affection of the heart also, all coming as I suppose from kidney trouble.

I had tried several kidney remedies with little result, not satisfactory.

I asked Mr. Dorrance, the druggist who handles your goods here and he recommended your Kidney and Backache Cure saying he had sold it for several years very successfully.

I took 4 bottles and the swelling has all gone from my limbs and my heart trouble completely cured.

I have recommended this Remedy to a large number of my acquaintances, with the same result.

I will gladly answer any letter from any one.

The Big Exposition to be Held in Oregon.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition will be held at Portland, Oregon, from June 1 to October 1, 1905. It will commemorate the hundredth anniversary of the exploration of the Oregon country by an expedition of 30 soldiers commanded by Captains Merriwether Lewis and Wm. Clark and planned by President Jefferson. The Oregon country comprised all of the present states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho and parts of Montana and Wyoming, an area of 300,000 square miles. This was the only territory acquired by the United States by discovery. The 13 original states were wrested from England by war. Louisiana, Texas and Alaska were purchased. Hawaii
